

Season 2 Episode 11

Monk Force

In a city in an obscure universe that is filled with stores of all kinds, crime breaks out. Crooks break into convenience stores and they are armed with deadly assault rifles and they steal all the money in the cash registers and they take various goods from the stores. Members of the police force in the city try fighting against the crooks but the crooks fight the police off easy and they even blast down some of the cops. These crooks also steal cars and they drive off in them and the police chase after them. The crooks make so many intricate turns that the police just shrug it off and give up and they let the crooks get away. Within a short amount of time, the city is in ruins and every store and house has been looted.

The mayor of this city is in the office of Grand Master Augi. Augi said, "Crime is quite common in the Ultraverse. There is so much crime that it is impossible for us to be everywhere at any given moment. This is also not really in the jurisdiction of the Ultraverse Monks. We mostly deal with issues that span between the different universes and not just some petty criminals that are confined to only one universe." The mayor said, "The reason why I am coming to you is because I believe these criminals are from other universes. My city and pretty much everything in its universe has been quiet and peaceful for the longest time before last night and now just out of nowhere, crime is everywhere. A security camera also caught footage of this." The mayor takes a VHS tape and he puts it in a VCR connected to a TV in Augi's office. It shows a portal opening in a store and crooks jump out and attack the store and afterwards, they jump back into the portal. Other footage shows some portals opening on streets and in alleyways. The mayor said, "I think this confirms my suspicion that these crooks are from different universes." Augi said, "Do you know why they targeted your universe in particular?" The mayor said, "I think I know why. The universe I am from is quite obscure so important governments from other universes trust my universe with storing powerful weapons and isotopes to create quantum blast bombs that are powerful enough to destroy several universes. They think it is safe in my universe because of how remote and obscure it is. I think it may not be safe anymore. This could be a plan from a greater evil force." Augi said, "It seems to be so. If these isotopes are as extreme as you say they are, you should have them transported to the hidden storage section of this monastery. We have a whole section dedicated to protecting powerful isotopes and weapons. Since these crooks have come from other universes, this does warrant a mission from us Ultraverse Monks. We just need to find where they are and where they came from.”

Ultraverse Keith is with a team of monks and they examine stores that were victimized by the crooks. Keith examines some of the broken glass shards and surfaces that were touched by the crooks. Keith uses a handheld scanner and it gives readings on the DNA. Keith said, “This DNA scanner I invented is linked to a database of every registered citizen of every universe. It can detect the universe where the DNA originated and it can point us to their locations.”

Augi stands in the large conference room in the monastery and Ivan, Safron, Dirk, Keith, and tons of other monks gather around in the seats. Augi said, “As you have all heard, there is a crime ring that is going on and it devastated an important universe. Thanks to technology provided to us from Keith, we are going to use our monk fighters to go to these other universes where the crooks originated from and we are going to flatten their homes. I have the exact addresses programmed into the computers in your fighters. We are going to teach these crooks a very important lesson on why no one should ever attack and commit crimes in other universes.”

Ivan, Safron, Dirk, and Keith are in monk fighters and they are sent off to the other universes. Every monk (including Augi) is sent off and the monastery is left deserted. Ivan, Safron, and Dirk fly their fighters over a suburban neighborhood in some universe and they arm their weapons and they lock on to the coordinates programmed into their computers. The fighters blast away at houses leaving them as heaps of rubble and debris. People stand on the sides and they look weirded out and scared over the carnage being created by the monks. Safron and Dirk’s eyes go big and Safron said, “We didn’t even need to press anything. It just automatically fired.” Dirk said, “It would suck if someone programed the wrong coordinates into this thing.” Monks all over the different universes in their fighters destroy all kinds of bizarre looking houses in all kinds of various environments ranging from cubicles in space-aged towers, to curved and wavy houses on warped purple planets, and even houses made of cubes in a world that is made from a red and blue grid. People walk around the horribly mangled remains of the houses and one person said, “Who could have done something like this?” Another person said, “It appeared to be those Ultraverse Monks in their fighters.” The other person said, “I trusted those monks. I never would have guessed they would resort to terrorism.”

Ivan controls his fighter and he views the coordinates on the computer and it states that the target was destroyed and it displays the coordinates for the next target. Ivan said, “I’ll be heading off for the next location.” Ivan controls the monk fighter and he sends it into a relative close proximity to the target programmed in the computer. Without pressing anything, the missile launchers on Ivan's fighter go off and they rapidly fire on the house being targeted. It is a nice executive house where an executive in a luxurious house coat walks out of the house to pick up a newspaper on the front walkway and his pupils dilate when they see a swarm of missiles heading for his house. The rich executive jumps and hides as the missiles destroy his house. Ivan looks sick and disgusted with the executive house getting destroyed. The screen on Ivan's computer turns red and it gives an order to return to the monastery.

Ivan sits in front of Augi's desk and the rich executive is also present in the office. Augi said, "Maxmo Esposito is a rich executive but that does not make him a crook. You destroyed his multimillion-dollar mansion. You must have a very good justification for your actions." Ivan said, "I did not destroy the mansion. You know that our monk fighters are programmed to automatically go off on the targets. The target in the computer must have been set wrong." Augi said, "We examined your monk fighter's computer and everything was all set up correctly. Maxmo Esposito's mansion's coordinates were not programmed into your computer. We know you must have something against Maxmo Esposito." Ivan said, "I had no idea he existed until now." Maxmo said, "You are going to have to pay for all the damages to my mansion." Ivan said, "How am I going to do that? I am a monk for my fulltime job. I don't get paid anything." Augi said, "I could give you a paid position. Maybe you can work as a cleaner throughout the monastery. We fired our cleaner last week because he kept slacking off on the job. Surely you are not going to do that. It looks like you have the job then. All your wages will be redirected into Maxmo Esposito's bank account."

The monastery is deserted and Ivan works as a cleaner where he scrubs all the floors of the monastery. Ivan is in the library where he dusts off old books that are covered in layers of dust and the dust forms into large dust clouds. Ivan hears a sound of the front door to the monastery getting kicked down. Ivan runs to the front of the monastery and he sees Borgus there. Borgus spots Ivan and he said, "Hello, Ivan." Ivan said, "Borgus!"

Borgus said, "Ah yes. All you monks are gone except for the one I want the most." Ivan said, "You planned all this?" Borgus said, "You catch on quickly. Now out of my way." Borgus skips past Ivan and he pushes Ivan down. Ivan draws out his sword and he jumps in front of Borgus. Ivan swings his sword at Borgus and Borgus lifts Ivan and spins him in the air and smashes Ivan down on his skull. Borgus finds the hidden storage room and he rips the hard metal door off the wall. Borgus views the isotopes being kept safe as well as the weapons. Borgus said, "Everything is here. This is exactly what I planned." Security droids are summoned and they target Borgus. They open fire volleys of missiles and plasma shots at Borgus and he smashes down all the security systems. Borgus grabs all the isotopes and weapons stored in crates and he carries all of them with his large overly strong and oversized green slime-based body.

Ivan jumps and he grabs onto a handle on one of the crates. Borgus keeps dragging Ivan across the floor. Borgus walks out to his battle fighter that has a smooth wavelike design and it is covered with all kinds of weapons imaginable. Borgus loads all the weapons and isotopes into the cargo chamber that is separated from the main cockpit by jail bars that leads to a moderate length walkway. Ivan is in the jail with the isotopes and weapons. Borgus sends his ship into Ultraverse space.

Ivan said, "You're not going to get away again, Borgus. I have friends that will risk their lives to rescue me." Borgus said, "I'm sure you do. Now shut up and let me play my part." Borgus puts on the Maxmo costume and he is in complete disguise. He activates the computer's communicator and Augi flying in the cockpit of a monk fighter appears on the screen. Augi said, "Maxmo, what can I do you for?" Maxmo reveals the back of the fighter with Ivan being visible in the background. Maxmo said, "Do you realize what your monk Ivan was doing? You left him alone to do a job and he didn't do his job at all. He tried using the isotopes to create a powerful deadly weapon so he can kill you and take your position. He wanted to rule over all the Ultraverse Monks." Ivan said, "Are you going to listen to this insanity? This is not Maxmo. This is Borgus in a costume." Maxmo said, "You see that. He thinks I am Borgus. Thankfully, I left my wallet at the monastery so I came back to get it and that is how I found that Ivan had betrayed the monks. I needed to be a hero and capture Ivan." Augi said, "Well, you did the right thing." Maxmo said, "Over and out."

Borgus said, "It is a shame you don't have anything to entertain yourself with. It is going to be a long flight." Ivan goes through the isotopes and the weapons in the crates. Ivan finds a powerful assault rifle that has a communicator in it. Ivan uses the communicator and he uses it to contact Safron and Dirk. Safron and Dirk are in their fighters blasting down more homes and they receive Ivan's signal. Ivan said, "Safron, Dirk. I am with Borgus right now in his fighter. He just left the main Ultraverse city. Your fighters may be able to track the coordinates of this weapon I am using to contact you with. All these new powerful weapons have tracking devices in them so we would know where they are if they ever got stolen." Safron said, "Let's see what I can do." Safron types in some commands into the monk fighter's computer and it locates the location of the weapon. Safron said, "I think I got a lock. Don't worry Ivan. We will come for you."

Ivan is sitting there talking into the weapon and Borgus spots him from the cockpit as he is flying. Borgus grins and said, "Trying to contact your allies?" Ivan said, "I was just looking for ways to entertain myself. You said it would be a long flight." Borgus said, "Indeed it is."

Ivan finds the isotopes and they are spheres that glow in different colors. Ivan finds a crate filled with odd weapon parts. Ivan finds a powerful bomb type weapon that can be made with the isotopes. Ivan looks through blueprints and he assembles the bomb type weapon and he leaves it in one of the crates. Ivan finds more weapon components and he assembles them together and he uses the isotopes to power a new sword type weapon. Ivan makes a sword that looks just like a standard issue monk sword but it is powered by isotopes and it has an orange blade that extends out. Ivan turns on the sword and he uses it to cut down the bars freeing himself. Ivan jumps at Borgus and he kicks Borgus in the face. Borgus messes up his flight and the ship is sent spiraling around Ultraverse space. Borgus said, "What gives? How did you?" Ivan said, "This is what happens when you leave a monk alone with weapons and isotopes." Borgus said, "You are not getting away from me." Borgus draws out a large curved bladed sword. Borgus swings the sword at Ivan and Ivan dodges the slashes. Ivan uses the new sword he constructed and he cuts the blade off Borgus' sword and he cuts off Borgus' lower right arm.

Borgus gets to his knees with some tears coming out of his eyes and he said, "How could you." His eyes turn sharp and he said, "It's on." Borgus uses his other arm to pick up Ivan and he squeezes Ivan. Borgus smashes Ivan into the wall and he makes the inner shell of the wall break revealing the circuitry in the wall. Ivan drops his sword and it deactivates as it falls to the floor. Borgus sticks Ivan in the wall. Borgus throws up green mutant slime and he uses it to seal up the wall with Ivan stuck all cramped up in it.

Safron and Dirk find Borgus' ship and they open fire on it. Borgus utilizes all the weapon systems on the ship and he blasts at Safron and Dirk and they swerve and dodge all the blasts. Safron sends her fighter flying over the surface of Borgus' ship and she shoots at the weapons and her shots do nothing. Safron said, "Borgus' weapons seem to be indestructible to our weapons." Borgus begins charging a powerful blast from his weapons. His ship begins to glow as the weapons are charged. Dirk said, "I think I can do something about these weapons." Dirk presses a button in the cockpit of his fighter and a tube that allows for canisters to be inserted is revealed. Dirk places a few cans of silly string into the tube. Dirk blasts the ultra-strong silly string at the openings of all the weapons leaving them clogged. The weapons are fired but the weapons are clogged and it causes them to explode leaving significant damage to the outer hull of the ship. Safron said, "It looks like his weapons have overloaded and are now destroyed.” Safron and Dirk land their fighters on the outer hull of Borgus’ ship and they use slicers in the bottoms of their fighters to create openings in the ship that are sealed with their fighters. Safron and Dirk jump into Borgus’ ship.

Borgus spots them and he said, “Ah, looks like Ivan’s friends have arrived to join Ivan in the wall.” Borgus points to the slime patch on the wall that is hiding Ivan. Safron said, “You’re going down.” Safron draws out her sword and Borgus draws out another one of his large curved swords. Safron and Borgus duel with their swords. Borgus slashes at Safron and Safron desperately blocks the attacks. Dirk fires silly string at Borgus’ hand and he yanks Borgus’ sword out of it. Dirk sends more string at Borgus and Dirk sends himself flying feet first into Borgus’ head. Dirk kicks Borgus in the head and Borgus grabs onto Dirk’s feet and he sends Dirk flying backwards. Dirk falls and lands in front of the green patch of slime next to Safron. Safron tries breaking Ivan free of the slime by grabbing onto the slime patch and trying to rip it off. Safron looks weak after attempting to rip it off and she said, “He is stuck in there really good.” Dirk said, “Let me try this.” Dirk tries ripping off the slime patch and he uses his enhanced strength and he begins to break the patch open.

Borgus jumps out and he smacks Safron in the head and Dirk continues to slowly break Ivan out. Ivan’s arm comes out a bit and Dirk breaks it some more and part of Ivan’s head is revealed. Borgus grabs onto Safron and he raises her high and squeezes her. Safron sees Ivan and she said, “Ivan!” Borgus spots what Dirk is doing and Borgus drops Safron so he can grab onto Dirk. Borgus said, “You might think you have an advantage over me by me having only one arm but you are gravely mistaken.” Borgus lifts Dirk and he is about to punch Dirk into Safron. Safron takes out her skateboard and she skates fast around Borgus and she skates on the walls dodging Borgus. Safron spots Ivan in the wall and he points to something on the floor. Safron spots the handle of the sword that Ivan built earlier from the isotopes. Safron grabs the sword and she slashes up Borgus with it. Safron cuts Ivan out of the wall freeing Ivan. She makes several cuts in Borgus and they all result in large lined openings with green slime leaking out of them. Borgus drops Dirk and he slowly walks backwards to where the isotopes are. Borgus said, “You are all dumb to think you can kill me that easy. As you all remember, I can survive the vacuum of space. I am taking all my isotopes with me.”

Borgus goes through the crates and he finds one of them was opened and is loosely closed. Borgus opens the crate and he finds the isotope bomb that Ivan built earlier. It has a scanner that reads and detects Borgus. The bomb arms itself and it instantly explodes with Borgus’ body serving as a shield for the rest of the ship protecting Ivan, Safron, and Dirk. Half of Borgus’ ship is destroyed and all the weapons and isotopes are left destroyed and Borgus is sent flying out into Ultraverse space.

There is a major opening where Ivan, Safron, and Dirk are and it leads out into Ultraverse space and it is sucking all of them out. Ivan, Safron, and Dirk grab onto wires from the wreckage and they hang there. Safron said, "If we die today, at least I get to die next to the one I love most." Safron kisses Ivan. Dirk said, "I have enough string." Dirk grabs one of his silly string canisters as he is dangling on the flailing wires and he empties his can to make it form a wall. The heroes are no longer being sucked into space. Safron said, "Well, it seems that Dirk saved our lives again with his magical string." Dirk said, "Of course it saved us. String is everything to us." Ivan said, "An Ultraverse without string is chaos."

Safron goes to the front controls of the cockpit and she said, "I will bring this bad boy back to the Ultraverse mainland so we can report all of this and..." Safron looks at the computer screen in the cockpit and she finds data files on Borgus' plans. Ivan and Dirk crowd at her sides and they view the information. It reveals plans to send an army of criminals Borgus recruited from all over the Ultraverse to rob various stores and houses in a certain obscure universe so the mayor would be forced to have the valuable goods (the isotopes and weapons) placed under Augi's protection. Safron said, "This was all a plot from Borgus all along. He used us." Ivan said, "Most of the Ultraverse probably hates us now for causing so much damage." Dirk said, "Yeah. This was apparently all Grand Master Augi's idea to do this. Why do we blindly follow his orders anyways? I know he is the Grand Master of the Ultraverse monks but we should still have say in our missions."

Ivan, Safron, Dirk, and Keith are in Augi's office and Augi looks over reports. Augi said, "So it seems that Borgus was the mastermind behind this all along. All of this was a big mistake on our part." Ivan said, "More like your part." Everyone looks at Ivan. Ivan said, "You came up with this whole plot all by yourself." Augi said, "Well, I am the Grand Master and I earned that title simply because I am considered to be the most experienced of the monks with tactical planning." Keith steps up and he said, "Ivan does have a justified statement. An entire high-class organization like us should not trust our judgements solely on one specific individual. Now most of the Ultraverse has negative opinions on us because of this most recent mission. I think it would be beneficial if we formed a monk committee where we decide our missions and our approaches." Augi said, "That could work. I do trust you more than I trust any other monk. I guess we have no choice but to form a committee and prove to the Ultraverse that we are still decent people and are still worthy of protecting them from the various dangers of the Ultraverse."